The Victoria Falls Zimbabwe and Zambia

The largest falling sheet of water in the world, gazed upon in awe by David Livingstone, and millions who have followed in his footsteps.

The Falls are generally at their most spectacular from February to May. From September to November the flow is at its lowest, with several of the falls on the Zambian bank virtually dry.

The hotels on the Zambian Bank of the Zambezi operate within their own private concession areas along the banks of the River, upstream from The Falls.
