

Airlink Introducing More Nairobi and Lusaka Flights this Month

18 March 2025, Johannesburg – Airlink, Southern Africa’s premier airline, will boost its Nairobi and Lusaka services with additional flights from 30 March 2025.

Three weekly night-time return flights will operate between Johannesburg and Nairobi. These augment Airlink’s daily service launched in 2023 when the airline became the first private-sector carrier to compete on the route.

Airlink will also add morning and afternoon flights to its popular Johannesburg-Lusaka service, increasing the schedule from 13 to 21 return flights a week.

“The additional Nairobi and Lusaka flights are scheduled to provide business and leisure travellers with greater choices and convenient connections, through Airlink’s Johannesburg hub, with our other domestic and regional services as well as long-haul flights provided by our global airline partners,” said Rodger Foster, Airlink’s CEO and Managing Director.

With Airlink’s new night-time flights, its Johannesburg-Nairobi route will operate on these days and at these times:
