

TAAG's contingency plan for the strike is ready and a meeting with the pilots' union is scheduled for Monday

Luanda 01-10-2022: TAAG Angola Airlines hereby informs all stakeholders that it has received a strike notification from the Pilot's Union - Sindicato de Pilotos de Linha Aérea (SPLA) – effective October 7. In response, TAAG immediately created a contingency plan to mitigate the impact of an operational downtime scenario. Nevertheless, a three-day round of negotiations is scheduled (3 to 5 October) where both parties will seek an agreement.

The Union formally delivered their list of demands on July 20, 2022. Several meetings were held since, where TAAG aimed to accommodate the Union demands within the boundaries of the company's current financial context.

Following industry's best practice and in line with Angolan legislation, TAAG is already implementing a contingency plan to minimize potential impact.

TAAG's Management Board is focused on ensuring minimal impact to our customers' travel plans, therefore we are quickly addressing the issue and have created a flight plan that will ensure minimum disruption and maximum connectivity during the strike.

The company has the utmost respect for all stakeholders, including the Union, and is keeping an open dialogue mindset at all times. The goal is to achieve a prompt, sustainable solution for all on behalf of our passengers.

Additional information will be provided to passengers via the TAAG call center, shops, and online platforms.

Please note the updated schedule of international and domestic flights for October 7, within the contingency plan (table below).
